Mr. Dunham is a great explorer and he has never doubted but what success would be his had he been Peary's last. Mr. Dunham visited him on board the Roosevelt. It is certainly of interest to the Maine born and especially the "Oxford Bears" that a product of the home forest was utilized by a native citizen, has aided Peary in the northward journey.

The Mohawks Repulsed Again.

Radcliffe 6—Mohawks 1.

For the third time this season Radcliffe met successfully the Portland band of Mohawk Indians and drove the wily red skins away from the garison, inflicting great slaughter. This battle was of course pre-arranged and Capt. Wm. Leith of the Norway settlement organized his company of faithful followers in a manner which even the sly invaders could not rout and slaughter. Having been repulsed in two previous engagements, the attacking tribe hit the trail with tomahawks handy; war paint on and convenient belt room for scalp locks.

They made a formidable appearance while surrounding the Norway block house, containing Capt. Leith and his sturdy woodsmen. Reinforcements reached the besieged garison but a few hours ahead of the engagement and sallied forth with a determination to disperse this Indian band if possible. The battle was sharply waged from the start with Capt. Leith's company working aggressive tactics and putting up a constant hammering against every point in the enemies' line. Six stubborn were the garison's casualties, but new information made by the resisting braves, that the Indians soon lost ground inch by inch until they finally gave up and returned to their tribe and wigwams on the pleasant shore of Casco Bay—defeated but not a dejected company.

Capt. Leith had the Mohawks' completely outgeneraled. He repulsed and blocked every move so not until the very last of this skirmish did the Indians gain one instant of advantage. This momentary turn of affairs was taken as a dispensation from the Great Spirit and they fought with renewed vigor. Alas, it was to late but the one move in their favor just saved the mighty band from being completely broken asunder.

In Other Words.

Saturday Sept. 4, Radcliffe defeated the Mohawks on the county fair grounds with a score 6-1. It was a great contest from the Norway stand point for it sweetens the acid mixture brewed after the hard luck set back of the previous week, and dispels every idle rumor concerning Radcliffe and the manager being down and out. This closes the series with the Portland team, Radcliffe winning out in three straight.

In courtesy to the genial Mohawk manager and to the young gentlemen forming this strong team, we would express our appreciation for their excellent conduct both in the game and out. Each player to a man is a true sportsman; perfect gentlemen and alive exponents of base ball. Every Norway fan expresses only words of praise for the high standard shown by the boys wearing the Mohawk insignia.

The Game.

The visiting Mohawks appeared in the field with few changes in their usual line up. Elliott occupied the pitcher's box and the Garison caught. The boys for right field where Higgins usually plays to advantage. Radcliffe presented Archie McDaniels as a back stop in place of Frank Lanan and Walter King filled acceptably the gaps left on first by Ben Thomas's absence.

Business opened brisk after umpire Flavin cried "play ball," with the sturdy Indians up. They drew only blanks and Radcliffe did no better, except to land Lawson on second by Ham's miff and Lanan on first by a clean hit.

Mohawks opened their second by another cipher account but the Norway's reaped one run when Young singled; advanced on Lafrance hit then scored when Gourley dropped Kings fly into short right field. The fourth inning the Indian visitors commenced to raise a war song which came near tying the score. With Bradbury gone, Jordan laced away the first Mohawk single and caught first safely. True rapped a hot grounder to Harrison which forced Lanan on first by a clean hit. By McDaniels trying to catch True at second while stealing, sent the runner away to third.

Now this True is a foxy lad on bases, and just missed scoring on a bold steal home when he was caught by William Lafrance who batted for delivery to the batter. The lad was put out but on a narrow margin indeed. Radcliffe sent two runs home after Jimmy Farnum was retired by True to Gooding because "Cy" Young melloped on a two-stroke and Freddie Lafrance followed with a hit to True, who tried to catch Young. After several passes Bradbury threw wild and Young secured third and stretched it over the home plate while Lafrance hiked it to second. Kings timely hit sent Lafrance home and the second score for this session.

Radcliffe added three runs to their bunch in their sixth when Farnum pounded over to True. A splendid stop of the swiftly rolling home hide was made but a poor throw by first placed Farnum safe. Young drew his third hit for the game sending Jimmy along to third, "Cy" out up more or less home play on first in a faked attempt to steal second, which got the visitors slightly on the wing and Farnum scored while "Cy" gained second safely. Lafrance was passed; King was retired by Bradbury to Gooding but this move advanced two runners; "Kid" Harrison found Elliott for a drive near Springer in center and scored Young and Lafrance. This ended all score getting for Norway for "Kid" was caught on second while stealing second and Clason was also caught off first and declared out.

Ham was called in from left field in the seventh to replace Lafrance. The bigging was taken from the bench and worked in the left garden. Ham held Radcliffe down in the seventh and eight innings to a couple of hits with no strike outs; only three men seeing first during his reign. Mohawk got together nicely in this part of the game and no errors are charged against the team in these last two innings.

In the ninth our Mohawk friends cracked their goose-egg luck and forced by one run; Jordan laid out a clean single, and the second score for Norway. McDaniels lost True's third strike, and scored on Ham's pretty hit; Gooding went out from Clason to King and Springer closed the game by being retired through Leith to King on a quickly executed play.

FRYEBURG.

Merrill-Walker.

The home of Carlton H. Walker at Island Farm, Fryeburg, was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 7 o'clock on Saturday evening, Sept. 4th, when his daughter, Susan May Walker, was united in marriage to Arvid Dennett Merrill of Fryeburg.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. T. Livingston, pastor of the Congregational church at Bridgton, on the lawn in front of the house, which was decorated for the occasion with trees and an arch of evergreen and goldenrod and lighted with Japanese lanterns. The single ring service was used.

Instead of ribbons, ropes of evergreen interwoven with cut flowers were carried by six bridesmaids, Rebecca Gros of West Baldwin, Mary Hastings and Jessie Walker of Fryeburg, three cousins of the bride; and Blanche Thomas, Almee Ballard and Vesta Cameron of Fryeburg.

The ushers were James W. Tarbox of Fryeburg, a cousin of the bride; James W. Eastman of Fryeburg, Frank R. Dresser of Portland and Dr. Arthur J. Lougee of Fryeburg. The best man was Peter George Haley of Brownfield, recently an instructor in English in Tokio, Japan. Sarah Walker, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and she wore a gown of cream colored lace and cloth of the same shade, and she carried a bouquet of pink asters.

The bride was attended by her father, who gave her away. She wore a gown of white messaline silk, trimmed with Belgian lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. She also wore a very old historic jewel in the form of a brooch, which had been handed down to the present generation from Sears Cook Walker. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Albert Abbott of Fryeburg, who remained at the piano and played softly during the service.

During the large reception which followed the marriage, punch was served by Mrs. Charles C. Warren of Arlington, Mass.; ices were served by Mrs. Frank Dresser of Portland and fancy crackers and cake were served by the six Thunder Storms, Mt. Washington.

As this is the season for thunder storms, an account of some of the electric disturbances that have visited the summit of Mount Washington during the past decade and more may prove entertaining, and especially as it is always interesting to read of dangers past, however trivial they may have been when encountered.

Lightning follows currents of air and streams of water, and yet even timid persons persist in sitting at open windows and seeking refuge under trees, down which streams of water are pouring during showers, and when the fluid is playing all around in neighborhood of Metals, especially iron and steel, possess a powerful attraction for lightning. The late Henry M. Burt received a shock in the old Tip Top House during a thunder storm. The bolt came down chimney in funnel, and he was struck insensible and lay for a short time partially paralyzed.

There are varied currents of air and numerous streams of water at the top, sometimes, but you'll find trees "rather scant."

The approach of a thunder shower from the Connecticut Valley and over Lancaster to the summit of Washington is often a spectacle of striking and fascinating grandeur. The black and threatening clouds, perhaps, may be seen by the currents that whirl within itself, comes galloping along,
the vivid lightning in front flashing from its top to the earth beneath, and the peals of thunder becoming louder with every flash. There is a strange feeling about the approaching monster that bodes ill for living things in its path, and especially on the exposed peak, and a vague feeling comes over one that he wouldn't mind if he were somewhere else.

But it is a false alarm. He "never touched us."

At a distance of a few miles the cloud seemed to overtop us, but our altitude was greater and it would not get its head over Jefferson. Adams Woods, Madison; so it went all to pieces against the ridges and ravines of those massive barriers, while we stand in a serene atmosphere, perhaps in sunshine, and watch the conclusion of the glorious performance—one of Nature's best and most impressive.

The end may be a few sullen roars,
with scattered detachments of clouds rushing here and there, as if they knew not what to go and were seeking a hiding place. It may be that in the rush against the Northern Peaks the great water laden and lightening bearing mass was split in twain, and two clean cut showers resulted.

One of these would strike the Androscoggin river at Gorham and follow the windings of that stream around and down through Oxford and Androscoggin counties in Maine to the ocean, while the other might pass down by Fabyans and Bretton Woods into the Crawford Notch and follow the valley of the Saco to Biddeford and Saco and out to sea, leaving the central part of Oxford county as dry as a herring.

The pronoun I is eliminated as much as possible from these papers, but down at Hebron Academy, about fifty miles distant, in this neglected district,
I could not, in my boyhood days, comprehend why in times of drought the Lord always sent the showers around by Rumford Falls, Livermore and Turrer on the one hand and Fryeburg on the other, while our minister was praying for rain and all the people were good, for they all belonged to the forenoon, and be heard thereon if they see cause:

O'BRIEN, late of Lowell, deceased; will and

They make the best writing paper in the world. Their Highland Linen, for instance, is even more popular today than it was five years ago, and at that time more of it had been sold than of any other paper. Besides Highland Linen there are many other Eaton, Crane & Pike papers, some costing more, some less, and all of high quality and correct style.

Will you not let us show you our line of these celebrated papers?

Radcliffe at the Corn Roast.

The Radcliffe team went to Mechanic Falls, Labor Day, Sept. 6, and played two games with the Percy Adams locale. Norway lost both games in a manner not perfectly satisfactory to the large bunch of fans following the sport here in town. The morning contest and defeat was taken with good grace as nearly everything went along in real sportsman-like manner, but in the afternoon things completely changed around and the Radcliffe players were led onto the gridiron and roasted crisp at every stage.

Justifiable remonstrance was the program throughout the singing process, but it had no effect on officials whose business it was to work fair and square in every deal.

Norway fans are not chronic kickers, but want to see the honest thing done without fear or favor. If reports are true concerning this holiday affair, Radcliffe, its manager and every loyal follower received the best roast handed across the diamond this season.

SOUTH PARIS.
The new Water System.

The water for the New Water System will be taken from Stony and Cooper Spring brooks. The water of these brooks will be brought into the village under 90 pounds pressure, by gravitation. When the village takes over the pipes now owned by Norway it will also have to take over the present reservoir which holds about one million gallons of water. This will be filled with the water from the new source of supply and held in reserve in case of emergency. There is now being constructed here by the village corporation for the new system, a reservoir of 500,000 gallons capacity. In addition to this there is a dam on Cooper spring brook at the present time and another will be constructed on Stony brook. It is estimated that each of these dams will store a million gallons, so that the storage capacity of the new water system will be about 3,500,000 gallons.

Denies Rumor.

It has been reported that Katinka and her peculiar baby will not appear at the County Fair, Sept. 14, 15 and 16.

Such rumors are untrue as Manager Flint tells us he will exhibit in connection with his new 11 cage jungle show on the Midway at one price of admission for the combined shows.

Katinka came direct from Europe and is already on friendly terms with the trained bear, tame monkey, leopard and other strange and interesting animals with this well-known exhibit.

Everything will appear just as advertised and Linwood invites you to read his ad in another column. Don't fail to see Katinka.

Improvements on Fair Grounds.

The crowd of people, who will attend the Oxford County Agricultural Fair (weather permitting) next week, will find more changes in the grounds than those who have attended year after year have been accustomed to find from one Fair to the next.

Three acres of land has been added to the grounds by building 1000 ft. of fence from the entrance to the spring south. This takes in the grove. The hay barn has been moved on to this bank.

A section of the cattle sheds, 100 ft. long, has been moved east and attached to the other cattle sheds.

An addition 40 ft. long has been built to the pig and sheep sheds, and all of these sheds covered in by a roof.

An office building for the cattle department, 15 ft. square, one story, with hip roof has been built on the east side of the pulling grounds and the scales have been moved south of that.

These changes double the space between the cattle sheds and the track used for the pulling ground and also greatly enlarges the space for the midway.

Electric lights have been put in the hall building, and the midway and cattle department are lighted by arc lights. The lights will be on all night.

In the near future perhaps the entire grounds may go on in the evenings.

The hall building has many improvements. The ticket office has been moved to the front of the building so the tickets may be sold on the sidewalk.

A house for walk has been built under the windows. There are five ticket windows instead of three.

A table to exhibit fancy work has been built between the two stair entrances in the upper hall. Sheathing has been put in the fancy articles department. A case for food exhibits has been put in.

Jack-o'-Lantern Time Is Here.

Grimacing Pumpkin Heads, with Flery Eyes, and the Gay Tick Tack Are Here.

This is the season of the year for the festive jack-o'-lanterns and until Halloween they may be seen most any night, being carried around the streets and put up to bewilder by boys and girls who have already begun their autumnal carnival.

Jack-o'-lanterns were first made of pumpkins and the sport of carrying them around and jumping out from behind trees with them when it is dark is reserved for Halloween eve. The progressive boys and girls of to-day however, cannot wait that long and a month before Halloween they make their appearance.

When this custom was young the only thing thought of for a jack-o'-lantern was a large pumpkin, but to the city boy or girl pumpkins are not always easily obtainable and their place has been taken by boxes. All kinds of boxes from the candy box to the shoe box, which are most popular, and larger boxes are used.

Another advantage of the box is that it is not so heavy to carry around.

The faces are made in the same way as in the case of pumpkins by cutting holes with the grinning mouth and eyes. When the village takes over the pipes now owned by Norway it will also have to take over the present reservoir which holds about one million gallons of water. This will be filled with the water from the new source of supply and held in reserve in case of emergency. There is now being constructed here by the village corporation for the new system, a reservoir of 500,000 gallons capacity. In addition to this there is a dam on Cooper spring brook at the present time and another will be constructed on Stony brook. It is estimated that each of these dams will store a million gallons, so that the storage capacity of the new water system will be about 3,500,000 gallons.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles, causing backache, irregularities, dizziness and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk upstairs without stopping on the way. I tried three different doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them, but seemed to get worse. The last doctor said nothing would restore my health. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and I am restored to my natural health."—Mrs. ETTA DONOVAN, Box 200, Willimantic, Conn.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

Clean Fairs.

Our State Board of Agriculture, as it existed, was an earnest advocate of cleaning the agricultural fairs from all liquor selling, all gambling devices, pool selling, games of chance and every other thing that served to detract attention from the strict purposes of these exhibitions. Much time was spent in studying what would be the most effective means through which these ideas could be enforced on the management of these exhibitions.

Finally in the Legislature of 1889, in providing for an increase of the bounty paid to agricultural societies, it was also provided that a society failing to comply with the requirements prohibiting these objectionable features at the fairs, would not be entitled to the State stipend.

When in 1891 the Board of Agriculture was abolished and a Commissioner of Agriculture was established in its place, the same requirements governing the fairs were handed over to the Commissioner, when it became the duty of that official to enforce this provision of the law. While the Commissioner of Agriculture issued notice to the officials of the requirements of the law, the officers grew somewhat lax in their compliance with its requirements.

The Commissioner of Agriculture, through having his attention called to the fact that the law was being violated, could not be ignored, has served to awaken attention anew to the law, and there is now the promise in view that the character of the fairs, so long labored for by the members of the Board of Agriculture, to be improved. But a move will not be easy to carry out.

It is not the business of the Commissioner to hunt for violations were he able to beat all the fairs. He must be notified on reliable authority of the violations, and the proof of the same be available, in order to authorize action on his part. It is not likely that officers of a society will be very vigilant in a search for transgression for they will be anxious to accuse themselves.

Who then will see it that the fairs are kept free of the debasing features that have heretofore made up the midway?—[Maine Farmer.]

The State of Maine Flag.

The new flag of the State of Maine, the purchase of which by the adjutant general was authorized by an act of the last Legislature, will soon be ready for inspection as it was ordered some time ago and its arrival at the office of the adjutant general is expected in the near future. It will be of blue with a fringe of yellow silk and will bear in the center, embroidered in silk on both sides the coat of arms of the State. The flag will take the place of the buff flag bearing a pine tree in the center and will be a decided improvement.

The law providing for the design of the new flag and authorizing its purchase is chapter 19 of the public laws of 1908, and is entitled "An act designating the official flag of the State of Maine, and describing the same; providing for the carrying of such flag by the regiments of the National Guard of the State of Maine; authorizing the adjutant general of the State to provide, and have deposited in the office of the adjutant general a model of said flag, and making an appropriation therefor."

Always After Us.

"No matter what we do, there is one class of people who will always be after us," declared a funny man.

"Who are they?"

"Posterity."

The Worn-out Farm.

A long-abandoned farm is not so difficult to restore to fertility as one that has been worn out by successive cropping by a man who does not understand his business or who is hiring the place from another and does not care how much the soil is robbed. Many farms have to a certain extent restored some fertility to the soil by natural process. That is, leaves, vines, stalks and even weeds will add a certain amount of humus and nitrogenous matter to the soil each year. If such land is plowed twice a year, so that the soil can digest and assimilate the plant life that has accumulated there, it will be found in a fair way to recuperate.

It is not such a difficult matter to restore a run-down or worn-out farm as some people imagine. It simply requires a little practical and scientific knowledge put into operation by a man who is not easily discouraged. Many a poor man has made his mark in farming on just such worn-out farms. It is possible today for a farmer to take a worn-out farm and build it up to a paying basis, supporting himself meanwhile. Farms of this character can be purchased at reasonably cheap in many parts of the country, or they can be rented for a long term of years, with renewal clause attached.

The first thing to do in restoring such a farm is to get a crop of some green stuff. It is easy to start a crop of oats by fall plowing and sowing them just enough to cover the seeds a little. Then by the following spring when the oats are up they should be plowed under. This makes a good starter and then by adding crops of grass and clover to the oats the soil will soon get the nourishment that it has so long lacked.

In most worn-out farms the soil is stiff and hard during dry weather; the surface bakes so hard that it is difficult to force a plow through it. There are two remedies for this. One is to work more plant manure into the soil, which makes it porous, and the other is to underdrain it. If the soil does not respond to the former treatment of the course in time underdraining must be resorted to anyway. Too little attention is given to this on most old farms, especially where the soil is a tough clay.

Plowing is one of the best methods of restoring the lost fertility of any soil. It works well whether the soil has too little plant food in it or when it is overcrowded with humus. It enables the soil to digest the food, releases much that is imprisoned in it and stores up nitrogen from the air. Not only fall and spring plowing, but summer plowing too, is required on some farms that have been allowed to run down. Such work will often take the place of commercial fertilizers and barnyard manure, although all of the latter that one can possibly secure should be mixed up with the soil at every plowing.

Consumptives Starve.

Cruel and inhuman practices are alleged in a statement given out by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis against the eastern doctors who persist in sending dying cases of consumption to the Southwest.

Fully 7,180 persons hopelessly diseased with tuberculosis annually come to die in the states of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Colorado, most of them by order of their physicians. The statement, which is based upon the testimony of the physicians, states that at least 50 per cent of those who go to the Southwest every year for their health are so far advanced in their disease, that they cannot hope for a cure in any climate under any circumstances. More than this, at least 60 per cent of these advanced cases are so poor that they have not sufficient means to provide for the proper necessities of life, which means that 4,315 consumptives are either starved to death, or forced to accept charitable relief every year.

It is not an uncommon thing for whole families, who can hardly eke out a living in the East, to migrate to the West in the hope of saving the life of some member of the family. In most instances, the object poverty of such cases forces them to beg, or to live on a very low level. Often consumptives who cannot afford the proper traveling accommodations are found dead on the trains before reaching their destination. The resources of almost every charitable organization in the Southwest are drained every year to care for cases which would be self-supporting in their Eastern homes.

At an average, at least $50 per month for the support of a consumptive in the Southwest, including some medical attention. The National Association strongly urges no one to go to this section who has not sufficient funds to care for himself at least one year, in addition to what his family might require of him during the time. It is also urged that no persons who are far advanced with tuberculosis go to so distant a climate.

Consumption can be cured, or arrested, in any section of the United States, and the percentage of the cures in the East and the West is nearly the same. Any physician, therefore, who sends a person to the Southwest without sufficient funds, or in an advanced or dying stage of the disease, is guilty of cruelty to his patient. Renewed efforts are being made to stop this practice, and to encourage the building of small local hospitals in every city and town of the country. Attempts are also being made in Southern California and in Texas to exclude indigent consumptives or to send them back to the East.

What, Indeed?

He was a quiet and unobtrusive young man, and he had called upon the same girl regularly for five, and a half years, but now he was giving his future plan of campaign. Not naturally, the damsel had grown weary of this, and to clear the air she at last decided that Henry must be firmly dealt with.

So one evening she said, without any advance on the young man's part: "No, no, Mr. Bottlewash, I cannot marry you, so it is useless for you to call upon me any more."

"But what shall I do?" the youth, "what shall I do? What shall I do?" "Oh, do not take it so hard, Henry! I will reconsider."

"It isn't that," interrupted the man, "but what shall I do for a place to go to during the long evenings of the coming winter?"

The deficit of the postal department for the last fiscal year, some the largest on record, being over $20,000,000. And the deficit for the fiscal year of 1908 was the record up to that time, or about $16,000,000. This is a matter for serious consideration.

Grandmothers Wanted.

With all the warnings, helps, hints and advice all women look young, and there isn't a grandmother to be had for love or money in most large cities. In some way-off village, or in some country home, one may run across a grandmother, but the species is almost extinct. In days of yore one remembers a wrinkled old darling, whose hardened hands felt as soft as silk to a favored brow. A bonnet was tied with wide ribbon strings under a double chin. A dress gathered full enough to keep secret the size of the waist line; was never too smart for club by little fingers to clutch. A waist, cut surplus, bore no high starched collar to scratch the tender little face of the sleeping grandchild.

Grandmother's apron pocket always contained everything needful, stinging, soothing, plaster for cuts and burns. When baby had the croup, the first call was for grandmother. She came in haste, with unbounded love. The starved child nurse might do for the grown-up, but it was only on grandmother's ample bosom that curly locks found relief. It was to such a grandmother that boys came for advice when their girls got off wrong, or that girls told their little love spats to. Imagine a young fellow getting confidential with a funbebe, dunced, handed over up-to-date grandmother of today.

She would snap up the youth and have his scalp dazling at her belt before his 10-year old girl could get him away from the mature siren's charms. The old-time grandmother was a different proposition. In her true eyes truth spoke. First in the house of rejecting came the old-time grandmother, and always first in the house of sorrow. Freed in a measure from the daily grind of the house-keeping, there was ample time for grandmother's interest in human kind. Every day for fashion's tyranny was over. There was plenty of time to devote to those who needed the help of these dear, work-blessed hands.

With sometimes a cap on her neatly parted sandy hair, she sat the ruler of Gibraltar on which the family leaned. Today all the world is young, or wants to be. Perhaps some day a good fairy will start the race for grandmothers. A grandmother whose heart bears no wrinkles, whose soul is as full of good as her hair is of gray; a grandmother unashamed of her age, telling her beads of good deeds, her rosary, years of worth.

An Old Oxford County Teacher.

Rev. Seldon J. Gould will be remembered by the older inhabitants in Oxford County as a successful teacher, and they will regret to hear of his death. He married Mary Ella Cummings of Albany, who survives him; also two daughters, May Evelyn and Maud Anna, and three sons, James Leonard, Pearl Dexter, and Ray Seldon; also two sisters, Arilla A. Gould of Norridgewock and Mrs. Loretta F. Allen of Fairfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Gould lost an infant daughter, Rose Ella, fifteen years ago.

He was actively engaged the ministry for nearly 20 years, and as pastor, city missionary, Sunday school teacher, and Sunday school Supt., in country, village and city churches, he was enabled to achieve a vast amount of good. For the past few years he has preached only occasionally.

A Duplex Trade Watch.

C. G. Knight of North Waterford, since closing out his saw mill business and retiring from active work, has occupied his spare time in the trading of watches, jackknives and other personal property.

He recently swapped watches with Will Gary and gave him a pretty good trade, as Mr. Gary thinks. It is a watch of a curious make, hunting case and duplex movements, so called.

This watch was kept in Albany and has been laid away for a fifth of a century, until recently it got into the trade circle presided over by Mr. Knight. The watch was shown to us and we ever saw one like it before, we have forgotten about it.

The Bachelor Girl.

To a woman, love is the bread of life; to a man, just the jam on the bread.

Somehow, the moment a man has rendered the key to his heart to a woman he begins to think about changing the lock.

Flattery is the counterfeit coin in which most men expect to pay for real kisses.

Don't try to kill a man's love by starving it out; overfeed it and it will soon die of indigestion.

Why does a woman spend two hours curling her hair and decorating herself with bby ribbons, just to see a man in order to tell him that they never can be anything but "platonic friends."

The man who pretends to laugh at love and to scorn woman is like the small boy who whistles in the d.r.k.—because he is afraid.

It is difficult to tell which must embarrass a man, his first tete-a-tete with a woman whom he is just beginning to love, or his last tete-a-tete with the woman he has just ceased loving.

If a man could stick to his wife, as he does to his favorite brand of tobacco, divorce would soon become obsolete.

When two people begin to analyze their emotions they vivisect their love.

A man begins by looking around for a woman who can stand on a pedestal, and ends by marrying the woman who shatters the pedestal and stands alone.

Why is it that when a man has done anything particularly inhuman he always remarks, "Oh, well, I'm only human!"

A true heart is hardened by the water of a woman's tears, but softened by the sun of her smile.

Ever since the Lord made Adam a present of Eve, man has looked upon woman as a sort of cotillion favor put here for the amusement.

One reason there are so many unhappy society marriages is because in society most people marry for position rather than for disposition.

Men say they admire a woman who is "perfectly square," but it's the perfectly round girl they usually marry.

Love is the sugar that takes the bitter taste out of life.

The most delightful part of a kiss is the moment just before taking.

The Household Girl.

A girl with one dimple and 400 freckles is a clench if she possesses a sweet disposition and a knowledge of domestic science. As homely as she may be to the unthinking world, she becomes glorified when she does the gingham apron and goes into a shining kitchen and pulls a string across the well-made bread, the masterpiece and the sublime potluck.

In the eyes of her enhanced husband she out-glitters the Queen of Sheba and her children rise up and call her blessed three times a day and several times between meals.

When the bread is perfectly baked, the coffee strong and hot, the steak juicy and fragrant, the hash well built and appetizing and the batter-cakes light and smoking as the melting butter is absorbed, the spirit of the Lord descends upon that household like a dove and caverns of the lucky man's soul echo with Glory Hallelujah! It beats bridge, it lays euchre in the shade, it makes the joy in the shop look like 30 cents.

Thirdly, the girl who cooks is divinity. She is the delight of a man's soul and a glow in the sight of God.

Drink Plenty of Pure Water.

Few of us take, day by day, enough pure water into our systems to keep us clear of disease of kidney, stomach, heart, lungs and skin. Water is a diluent, and washes out the system, if the water is pure and free from organic or inorganic impurities. Your abstemious water-drinker will tell you that though he does not drink much water he swallows plenty of tea, coffee, cocoa or milk.

But although these have a food value they are not water pure and simple, and that is what you do need to keep open your system in a healthful way. Some of these drinks, moreover, affect the digestion—notably, I think, cocoa, which is usually too rich, and this all the more so because so much sugar and milk is added thereto. Tea and coffee in excess disturb the stomach and the nerves and liver as well.

Ancient Concrete.

That the Romans were very familiar with concrete as a building material to its use, examination of the concrete work in the forum clearly shows. Their concrete contained generally only two kinds of stone, travertine and scolia, in equal parts. Scolia is a hard, closely knit rock, very similar to our bluestone, or trap rock in color as well as quality. Travertine is a volcanic rock not so hard as scolia, considerably lighter in color, and was desirable on account of its porosity, which insured a good bond with the cement. In all the Roman work the combination of the travertine and the scolia is clearly distinguishable.

Keep the Water Boiling.

Something worth knowing. How to cook string beans in 30 or 40 minutes. Prepare the beans as you always do and have a kettle with boiling water, then drop a few pieces of beans in at a time so not to stop the water from boiling and cover, and in one-half hour or a little more they will be all cooked. The secret lies in not letting the water stop boiling.

Moses Young of Sumner is getting his oxen shod for the Oxford County Fair and his "Gee" they lie up will be heard by many on the way and at the grounds. "Moses" will be there on deck with the white oak emblem of his power, waving in his right hand.

Oxford Co. Dairy Testing Association.

A meeting of the Oxford Dairying Testing Association was held at the home of C. E. Richardson at Canton on September 2nd. Owing to the field day of the grange held at East Sumner the attendance was small, but nevertheless the meeting was very interesting.

Pres. Bonney called the meeting to order and Sec. Adams read the minutes of the last meeting. A general discussion of the work of the association followed until the dinner hour.

Dinner was served in the house.

In the afternoon Dr. F. L. Russell of the University of Maine gave a very enjoyable lecture on the "Udder of the Cow." He took up the diseases affecting the udder alone and those affecting the udder and the whole system of the cow. He offered many simple and effective remedies for the various troubles which are continually coming up in the herd.

NOW ON STRIKE.

Millions of Stomachs Refuse to Do Their Work Properly.

All over this broad land millions of stomach owners are being held in humiliating subjection just because they are so stubborn that they will not accept a fair, square and broad minded offer.

Life is short for all of us; it will be shorter for those who let their stomachs go from bad to worse.

Noyes Drug Store has a famous prescription called Mi-o-na, and they believe so thoroughly in its remarkable curative power that they say to every owner of a distressed stomach that they will guarantee Mi-o-na tablets to cure acute or chronic indigestion and all stomach ailments, or money back, and the price is only 50 cents a box.

And still there are stubborn people right in Norway who won't accept this offer, but continue to suffer from gas on stomach, belching of sour food, stomach pains, foul breath, dizziness, biliousness and headaches, just because—just because—that's all, there is no other reason.

Mi-o-na tablets stop dyspeptic agony in five minutes; they cure obstinate cases of indigestion, and turn the old stomach into a new one in a few weeks, or money back.

Where the Finest Flour is Made

The bread-making qualities of flour are due entirely to the kind of wheat. Nature gives to wheat, and flour, all the strength they possess.

R. JAMES ABERNETHY, Jr., "The American Miller."

WILLIAM TELL FLOUR is made from the finest specially selected OHIO Red Winter Wheat. President John W. Burk, who personally inspects the wheat offered for this famous flour, has an experience of 45 years at the business.

Every shipment of grain must come up to the long established William Tell standard in every respect.

Ask any expert. He will tell you that the whitest—most delicious bread—the lightest biscuits, the kind that melt in your mouth—are made from the flour of this wheat. That's the only kind that goes into—

Scalp Locks.

Three straight from a band of warriors like the Mohawks isn't too bad. Their work in this last game was hardly up to the article offered in the previous battle as the plump total of errors indicated.

Archie McDaniels gave the Norway supporters a big scare when he failed to reach town until Saturday noon. The boys traveled quickly when he finally arrived at the Beal's Hotel and there was great rejoicing.

Jimmy Farnum is a head liner as a sensational fielder. His running catches and acrobatic finish is becoming the talk of the town. This is strenuous work for a boy physically unfit for such antics, shows genuine love for the game mixed with fine quality sense.

"Og's" Young must stand in with Santa Claus. He appeared at the bat four times; reaped two singles and a double and sacked in three runs out of the six. Some pumping in the cellar, Cuy!

True, who plays third base for Mohawks, has the goods of fine texture even though the fielding errors charged against him might indicate otherwise. That build steel from third in the fourth inning was a gamey attempt to chalk up a run, but he slipped his drivers not knowing the Leib-McDaniels Company.

Walter King is a high trump on the first base line. Giving out his territory and scoop up rollers from the sand is unquestioned. Nature provided this lengthy fellow with an elastic anatomy and he saved the infield several errors for throws of the high and wide variety. This excellent work of smothering the second quality assortment aided materially in keeping the team from pole-hunting on more than one occasion.

Clason is putting up strong games around second base and captures everything flying or rolling near his stand. His batting is also gilt edged, being sure, strong and timely.

Umpire Flavin's excellent work throughout the game was such a contrast to that stuff shoveled out by others during our most exciting and important engagements. This official's impartial fairness and practicable decisions was such a relief to the usually antagonistic fan.

"Uncle" William twirled a heady game and worked the Mohawk batters a occasion requiring giving out only one pass; allowing but five singles and striking out four on the heavy end of the batting order isn't a bad record against a team of strong muscle. His support was almost flawless and deserves many complimentary adjectives.
